Jenny Mustill is a multidisciplinary artist who uses a varied practice of painting, drawing, doll making, animation and story telling to explore her inner psychological landscape. Jenny graduated from Chelsea College of Art with a BA in Fine Art painting. Soon after she joined Damien Hirst's Gloucestershire studio as one of his assistants. Since 2009 Jenny has been the creative director of Ruby Ruth Dolls.

Jenny has exhibited in solo and group shows in Brighton: 2021 - Benevolent Beings, The Little Mustard Shop. 2019 - Polarised Perceptions, Solo show, The Gallery Lock-in and The Art Rooms, group show. 2018 - Memory Palace, Solo show at The Art Rooms.. 2016 - Jenny and Liam Paint the Blues, No Walls Gallery.

Ghada Chamma received a degree in Fine Arts from the Higher Institute of Fine Arts in Tunis. She has exhibited in Yosr Ben Ammar Gallery, The National Library of Tunisia's Gallery, Al Abdalliya Palace and The Aire Libre Gallery-El Teatro Space in Tunisia. In 2014 she took part in Tunisie: Turbulences exhibition, (Imago Mundi collection) and exhibited at La Villa Borghese, Roma 2014, at Giorgio Cini Foundation, Venice 2015, at The Pratt Institute, New-York 2016. In 2017 she took part in Tribe 17 International Art Festival at The Barge House in London, in 2018 she exhibited at CICA Museum in South Korea and in 2021 she participated in an art auction with Greenhouse Auctions, New-York. Her works are contained in the Ministry of the Culture of Tunisia's collections and in Imago Mundi Collection.

KOOP PROJECTS

Based in Kemptown, Brighton, the gallery supports creative projects that emphasise the role of contemporary African art and artists as a dynamic source for learning and change and looks to foster conversations between artists in Africa and their counterparts in and around Brighton.
